

ABA:67792181

SPa ventral

This fluorescence microscopy image displays a ventral view of a SPa (likely a Spalangia fly). The image is characterized by two large, symmetrical, blue-colored lobes that dominate the central area. A thin, light-colored horizontal and vertical line intersect at the center, dividing the image into four quadrants. At the bottom center, where the two lobes meet, there is a small, bright, yellowish-green spot. The background is black.