

ABA:71617960

Arc

This is a false-color astronomical image of a galaxy. The central region is a bright, yellowish-white point source, likely the galactic core. The surrounding structure consists of blue, diffuse, and irregularly shaped regions representing the galaxy's spiral arms and interstellar dust. A white crosshair is superimposed on the image, with its vertical line passing through the central core and its horizontal line intersecting the lower part of the galaxy's structure.